Admission Policy

The very spirit of Chukyo University is embodied in the words of our university motto - "A focus of excellence in both learning and sports".

These words express tackling learning with sincerity through university life and attaining high-level education and dedicated knowledge, promoting health in both mind and body in disciplines typified by sports, cultivating talents and practical skills to overcome difficulties, and enhancing resourcefulness.

In light of our university motto, we welcome individuals with the kind of drive and ability described below.

- Those who have studied a broad range of subjects at high school level, and who have the basic academic skills required for study at university.
- Those who strive for self-improvement in learning activities, a mastery of a variety of different skills, cultural activities, artistic activities, and sports activities, and who deliver results.
- Those who discover new problems, and are able to think and act for themselves in finding a solution to these problems.
- Those with the desire to acquire an extensive education through aggressive learning, and pursue a high level of expertise.
- Those with the will and desire to acquire knowledge and abilities required in the world today through research activities, extra-curricular activities, and through student life, and offer a significant contribution as members of society in the future.

Furthermore, all schools and departments are looking for individuals with the ability to attain these attributes from "purposes relating to the nurturing of talent" and "the purpose of education and research". Specifically, each of these helps to establish "new student acceptance policy", specify application eligibility and examination subjects for each entrance examination requirement, as well as highlight the basic items that must be learned up to high school level. At Chukyo University, we are looking for individuals who have knowledge in a broad range of subjects, and who are willing to sublimate their learning with this as a foundation at each school and department.

Diploma Policy

Chukyo University's mission is to provide society with promising talent. Those who "1) observe the rules, 2) try their best, 3) embrace teamwork, and 4) respect others", the four fundamental principles of our university motto, are widely celebrated for being "highly desirable people in terms of individuals, family members, members of society, citizens, and as members of the human race."

At the university, degrees are awarded to individuals who satisfy these four fundamental principles, who have studied a curriculum based on the "purposes relating to the nurturing of talent" and "the purpose of education and research" of each school, whose grades have been subjected to strict evaluation, and who have acquired the following capabilities.

- Those capable of equipping themselves with the knowledge and skills required for their specialist field, and who comprehend matters in both scientific and academic terms.
- Those who have acquired systematic knowledge and grounding in fields other than their specialist field.
- Those capable of finding solutions to new problems they have discovered based on acquired knowledge and skills, and who are able to convey a creative way of thinking about the future.
- Those who have acquired the language skills indispensable to participating actively in a society that is becoming ever more global, the ability to gather and utilize information ethically, and the communication ability and leadership spirit to realize their goals while working with others.

Graduates of Chukyo University possess a logical ability to think that allows them to find solutions to new problems, and are expected to contribute to social development as members of society by working in coordination with others.

Our "degree conferment policy" has been stipulated specifically and in detail for all schools and departments, and has been made publicly available.

Curriculum Policy

Curriculums are designed largely on the two pillars of "subjects common to all schools" offering enlightened education to all students enrolled at Chukyo University, and "subjects unique to each school" offering expert knowledge in each school and department based on the "purposes relating to the nurturing of talent" and "the purpose of education and research" established in each school and department.

- "Subjects common to all schools" cover a wide variety of different fields, and aim to nurture multi-faceted and logical thinking and communication abilities, and equip students with comprehensive knowledge.
- "Subjects unique to each school" are intended to equip students with specialist knowledge and skills, help them respond to social changes and technological advancements, and nurture the ability to discover and find solutions to problems.
- The university designs phased, systematic curriculums which reflect study courses and models that are aligned with future goals, and provides education which contributes to student career building.
- Subjects offering an introductory education are assigned to aid in the smooth transition from high school level study to the more active and independent style of learning required for university education.

And in addition to providing education in knowledge and skills, Chukyo University also provides human education, arguably the most important education students require as members of society, based on the four fundamental principles outlined in our university motto.

- 1) Cultivating the spirit necessary to value society's rules and morals (observe the rules)
- 2) Cultivating a challenging spirit willing to tackle goals (try their best)
- 3) Instill in and nurture a sense of cooperation and sociability (embrace teamwork)
- 4) Cultivate a sensibility which respects the existence and opinions of others (respect others)

The merits of scale the university offers facilitate the promotion of broad-based learning through the study of different inter-disciplinary fields based on the interests of each student. The university also offers a variety of extra-curricular educational programs based on keywords such as philanthropy, international, careers, and obtaining qualifications to help improve students' practical abilities.

Such programs help to make curriculums more effective, systematic improvement activities relating to educational content and methods are carried out continuously, lessons are taught based on previously announced teaching plans and study attainment targets for all subjects, and grades are assessed rigorously.

Our "curriculum design and implementation policy" has been stipulated specifically and in detail for all schools and departments, and has been made publicly available.

In particular, antisocial behavior such as improper conduct (cheating) during examinations, acts of violence, shoplifting, unauthorized parking, inappropriate posting on the Internet, and misuse of computers, etc. will be severely dealt with.

Caution Against Theft, Thieves Walking Away with the Possessions of Others

There have been known to be cases of theft or people walking away with the possessions of others in the university (particularly in changing rooms and lounges). The majority of these cases are down to carelessness or negligence on the part of the victim.

Examples of such cases are "having purses or wallets stolen after placing bags down to keep seats in the student cafeteria", "leaving valuables in the lounge and returning from the toilet to find them gone", "placing valuables in lockers when taking physical education classes and forgetting to lock them".

All students are responsible for their own possessions. Due caution is advised.

Lost and Found

Any items found in the university should be taken to the Student Affairs and Support Division. They will be stored for a fixed period of time, and then handled either in accordance with the law, and with university regulations. The university also notifies the competent police station of any valuables that are handed in. The Student Affairs and Support Division notifies owners any items found if able to identify them. There is a risk of misuse if you lose your driver's license or cash card, etc., and therefore any theft of such items should be reported to the police and relevant financial institution. In the interests of protecting personal information, the university does not handle inquiries by telephone. Please come to the Student Affairs and Support Division service desk immediately.

Calling Students From Outside the University

We do not respond to personal requests to place calls out for others, or to inquiries, and therefore we ask that you notify your family and friends of this in advance.

Smoking Rules

The university employs a strict system of separating smoking and non-smoking areas. From the viewpoint of preventing second-hand smoking, be sure to use the designated smoking areas in the university if wishing to smoke.

Smoking in places other than smoking areas, and the entry of those under 20 years old into smoking areas, is prohibited by law. Furthermore, smoking, smoking while walking, and throwing away cigarette butts on the streets around the university is a great public nuisance. Such actions are prohibited. Please behave in a dignified manner befitting that of a Chukyo University student.

Drinking (Alcohol)

Underage drinking is prohibited by law. Flatly refuse any offers of alcohol by those in clubs or circles, by friends, or by seniors, or if being forced to down drinks in one go. Attention should also be paid to those underage who are intending to drink alcohol.

Even if accompanied by someone 20 years of age or older, no attempt should be made to forcefully persuade them to drink. Be mindful of alcohol harassment, and take care of anyone who has drunk themselves unconscious.

Religious or Missionary Activities, and Political or Social Activities

Religious or missionary activities, and political or social activities are completely forbidden in the university. Those engaging in such activities will be asked to leave the university.

Prevention of Drug Abuse

The use of drugs (cannabis, stimulants, dangerous drugs, etc.) is a major social issue. Antisocial behavior such as the use or sale of banned drugs is not permitted.

Social Media Use

In addition to being a system which uses the Internet, social media is not something that is used by only a limited number of people.

Be aware that you are in connection with people all over the world when using social media. It is necessary to pay attention to the following five points in particular.

- (1) Information on social media is not necessarily accurate.
- (2) Social rules must be observed even on social media.
- (3) Information on social media is accessible from anywhere in the world.
- (4) Those using social media should do so responsibly, even if using anonymously.
- (5) Carelessly posting information on social media may cause damage to the university, family, or friends.

<Examples which occurred at the university>

- Despite being under 20 years of age, one student posted their photo together with a comment saying, "I can drink now".
- One student posted slanderous comments about a customer at their place of work.
- One student posted slanderous comments about a certain teacher.

Most of these cases were pointed out by those outside the university.

Guidelines for the Use of Social Media for Chukyo University Students

The effective use of social media (Facebook, Twitter, LINE, etc.) not only ensures that information is conveyed effectively, but facilitates the exchange of information, and aids in the building of mutual relationships.

However, posted information can often cause unintended problems, have great social impact, or significantly affect the posters themselves.

It is therefore necessary for each and every person using social media to have a correct understanding of both the characteristics of each form of media, as well as the responsibility required of them.

At Chukyo University, we have put together a set of guidelines summarizing the ways of thinking behind the use of social media, as well as points to keep in mind to ensure that students use these tools appropriately, effectively, and safely.

Please be aware of the following points to ensure responsible communication activities as members of Chukyo University.

Compliance with the law

Please observe the laws of Japan, and pay due regard to basic human rights and intellectual property rights (portrait rights, copyrights, trademark rights, etc.) With photographs of people, rights are often recognized based on the personal rights of the subjects of photos in addition to copyrights, and therefore consideration must be given not only to intellectual property rights, but also personal rights.

Compliance with Foreign Countries' Laws and International Law

Even when outside the country for the purpose of studying abroad or traveling, foreign countries' laws and international law must be observed based on the situation in which you find yourself.

Compliance with human rights

Respecting the character and diversity of others, and recognizing different opinions, ways of thinking, and ways of life should be the cornerstone of social media use.

Accurate information

Confirm the accuracy of any content posted on social media before doing so. It is important to understand that the intentional spread of false or inaccurate information may damage the good name and trust of both yourself and Chukyo University.

Awareness of being a member of the university

In revealing that you are a member of Chukyo University, it is important to be fully aware that you come across not just as an individual, but as a representative of the university to society as a whole, and that you make every effort to live up to your image as a member of the university.

Protecting your own privacy

Examine the content of any services used closely, and exercise due caution when registering or disclosing personal information. When posting information using social media, there is always a fear that even if deleted, the information is saved or archived by a third party, and used as personal information in the future. In addition to just personal information, there have also been countless examples in which people have been identified from information such as behavioral history, and therefore due consideration should be given. Furthermore, it is necessary to be aware of the fact that job hunting now involves prospective employers searching for potential new recruits on the Web, and therefore it is necessary to always keep in mind the fact that social media may be used in the future to cause inconvenience to the individuals involved.

Inclusion of statement of exemption from obligation

When communicating personal views on matters relating to the university, disclose your social position as a member of the university, as well as your real name, and use the first person to clarify that your views are those of your own, and not the university's.

Points to be observed when communicating information

Information such as the following must not be communicated.

- (1) Content involving slander, defamation, harassment, or threats
- (2) Content involving the privacy of others
- (3) Content reflecting public policy
- (4) Discriminatory content relating to race or ethnicity, language, politics, religion, the human body, illness, sex, thoughts, or principles
- (5) Other information used for the purpose of commercial behavior deviating from educational or research purposes

Duty of confidentiality, handling of confidential information

Information with duty of confidentiality found out in the university must not be disclosed publicly.

■ Handling of Personal Information

When referring to the privacy or personal information of others, the understanding of the other party must be obtained as a rule.

If the university determines that the content of the communicated information is inappropriate, the university will protect its dignity, launch an investigation for the purpose of fulfilling its social responsibility, and may take disciplinary action.

Student Life Committee

Things to Pay Attention to in Your Everyday Life

Invitations to undesirable groups and dangerous business practices aimed at students with little social experience are now widespread. Students should keep their wits about them and hold their nerve when dealing with such situations.

Ten Conditions for Avoiding Damage

1. Clearly ask for other person's identity and purpose.
2. Do not complete questionnaires on street corners without careful consideration.
3. Have the courage to flatly refuse by simply saying "No".
4. Call 110 in the case of any persistent solicitations.
5. Be particularly on your guard with salesmen who tell you that "it's only available today."
6. Never make unreliable verbal promises.
7. Never sign or stamp anything without checking the content.
8. Never allow yourself to be forced into signing a contract because of a persistent salesman.
9. Exercise your right to a cooling-off (right to terminate a contract unconditionally) period of 8 days even when signing a contract.
10. Do not resign yourself to signing a contract or worry alone, but consult someone qualified in dealing with such issues.

- Is what happened to me harassment?
I don't whether I can prosecute.
- My friend told me about their harassment concerns, but what should I do?

Why not discuss any concerns you may have with the Student Support Center or consultants in each school?

Don't be too concerned over whether you think you have suffered campus harassment. However, if you have suffered in some way, please come and discuss it with us.

Applications for consultation can be submitted using the following methods.

[Consultation details]

- Student Support Center
- Consultants

It is not necessary to talk with a consultant from the school or department to which you belong.

Student issues will subsequently be dealt with based on what the student wishes to discuss, as well as their desired outcomes (see diagram on right). Consultations can also be anonymous. Furthermore, students can be rest assured that discussions with consultations will be handled confidentially, and that no information will be leaked to external sources without the knowledge and approval of the student.

Has this kind of thing happened to you?

The other day, the professor yelled "Your presentation was a total waste of time. If this is what I'm being forced to listen to, I think I'll go back to the lab!" in front of all the seminar students. I want to continue my research, but I don't know if I can continue. I cannot stop feeling anxious.

1st years have to clean and prepare for club activities, and then tidy up after they've finished. I've been doing my best, but my seniors always reprimand me harshly. This is so much harder than practice. I thought that club activities would be so much more fun. I am thinking about quitting my club activities.

Others around me have talked about sex in loud voices, or shown me sexual images during seminars. Boys have pestered me repeatedly about whether I have a boyfriend, and asked me questions about my private life. They are apparently spreading rumors about me to others. I wish they would stop.

Please refer to the website for details of consultants.

■ Improper conduct involving research

Forgery
Creating non-existent data or research results, etc.
Tampering
Making changes to research material, equipment, or processes, and altering data, results obtained through research activities to non-genuine data.
Misappropriation
Reusing the ideas, analysis methods, data, research results, theses or terminology of other researchers without the understanding of the relevant researcher, or without appropriately indicating the source of the material.

Grading Criteria

Grades are awarded based on examinations (written, oral, practical, etc.), reports, class attendance, etc. using evaluation methods and criteria determined by the teachers in charge.

Grading criteria is as follows.

Category	Comment	Score	Grade Point (GP)	Evaluated content (English content)
Pass	S	100 to 90 points	4.0	Excellent
	A	89 to 80 points	3.0	Very Good
	B	79 to 70 points	2.0	Good
	C	69 to 60 points	1.0	Pass
	N	Accreditation	-	Credit given under credit provision
Fail	D	Less than 60 points	0.0	Fail
	F	Examination not taken	0.0	Withdrawal

GPA

GPA is an abbreviation of Grade Point Average, and represents grades expressed in numerical form. It is expressed with a value of between 0.0 and 4.0, and the higher the value, the better the grade.

<Purpose of GPA adoption>

- (1) To standardize grading criteria for university education
- (2) To improve teaching effectiveness through strict grading

<GPA calculation formula>

GPA is obtained by replacing grades with grade points, and dividing the total of this value multiplied by the number of credit units by the number of credit units for courses registered.

$$\text{GPA} = \frac{4.0 \times \text{number of S credit units} + 3.0 \times \text{number of A credit units} + 2.0 \times \text{number of B credit units} + 1.0 \times \text{number of C credit units}}{\text{Total number of credit units for courses registered (also includes number of D and F credit units)}}$$

- * Subjects common to all schools and subjects unique to each school are subject to GPA calculation. N (accredited units) and free subject credit units are not included in the calculation formula.
- * The fourth decimal point is omitted from GPA values, which are expressed with a value up to the third decimal point.
- * Accredited subjects exceeding credit units earned, inclusive are classified as free subjects in the Credit Unit Summary Table, but are subject to GPA calculation.

<Use of GPA>

GPA values are used as an indicator for the selection of students to receive educational encouragement awards, and for the selection of the recipients of award for outstanding grades at graduation ceremonies.

Depending on the school, GPA distributions and average values are publicly announced after grades for each semester have been confirmed in order to boost students' motivation to learn. There are also subjects for which students are selected based on GPA values.

Grades Announcement

<Spring semester subjects>

GPA values are announced on CHUKYO ALBO in August.

Check the school year calendar (calendar of events) ▶▶▶ See P4 to 5 for announcement dates.

<Fall semester subjects, spring and fall subjects>

GPA values are announced on CHUKYO ALBO in February.

Check the school year calendar (calendar of events) ▶▶▶ See P4 to 5 for announcement dates.

<Grade inquiries>

Grade related inquiries can be made following the announcement of grades for each semester. Details on the inquiry period and method, etc. can be found under "Notices" on CHUKYO ALBO.

However, no inquiries are accepted for cases where unable to provide concrete evidence of why grades are not valid based on actual fact, or for information on reconsideration of, or relief for grades. Furthermore, inquiries cannot be made directly to teachers in charge of classes via MaNaBo e-mail, etc. based on the judgment of the individual. Please use this system for all inquiries relating to grades.

1 Credit units required for graduation

This field contains the total number of credit units factored into the minimum credit units required for graduation.

2 Subjects common to all schools

This field contains the total for each subject category for subjects common to all schools.

3 Floating credit units

Credit units acquired in excess of the [A] credit units acquired for subjects common to all schools and [H] minimum credit units required for graduation for subjects unique to each school (16 units) are [J] floating credit units.

36 credit units are required to graduate.

If 36 credit units are exceeded, the number is added to credit units earned, inclusive for "free subjects" for credit units for non-required courses.

4 Subjects unique to each school

This field contains the total for each subject category for subjects unique to each school.

5 Credit units for non-required courses

This field contains the total for number credit units for teacher training course subjects and other qualification subjects.

6 Free subjects

This is the number of credit units that are not factored into the minimum credit units required for graduation other than teacher training course and qualification subject credit units.

Viewing the Credit Unit Acquisition Status (Calculation Method)

(1) Credit units to be earned for this semester Number of credit units for courses registered (number of credit units incl. spring and fall subjects) (2) Total credit units earned Number of credit units already earned (3) Credit units earned, inclusive Number of credit units showing how many of the credit units necessary for graduation * Includes number of credit units for courses being taken in current semester ((1) Credit units to be earned for this semester). The number for credit units earned, inclusive will drop by the corresponding amount for any courses that are failed. (4) Minimum credit units required for graduation Number of credit units in each class necessary for graduation	Point! <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" value will never exceed the "(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation" value. When the "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" and "(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation" values are equal, subjects for registered courses must be passed to ensure that graduation requirements for the respective category are satisfied.

Notes • The following diagram is a sample.

Category	(1) Credit units to be earned for this semester	(2) Total credit units earned	(3) Credit units earned, inclusive credits	(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation
Credit units required for graduation	24	106	130	140
-- Subjects common to all schools --	0	0	0	0
[A] Subjects common to all schools	0	0	0	0
--[J] Floating credit units--	0	0	32	36
-- Subjects unique to each school --	24	106	98	104
[B] World languages (Elective compulsory)	8	42	30	30
[C] School foundation (compulsory)	0	4	4	4
[D] Foundation in own division (compulsory)	0	6	6	6
[E] Foundation in other divisions (Elective compulsory)	0	10	8	8
[F] Own division subjects (compulsory)	0	16	16	16
[G] Own specialized course subjects (seminar) (Elective compulsory)	8	0	8	8
[H] Elective subjects (Elective)	8	28	26	26
[I] Graduation study (compulsory)	0	0	0	6
-- Credit units for non-required courses --	0	0	0

In this example, in order to satisfy "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" for credit units required for graduation, we can see that 10 credit units are still required. With regards to this remaining 10 credit units, the "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" for [I] graduation study for subjects unique to each school is 0, and the "(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation" of 6 has not been attained, meaning that 6 [I] graduation study credit units must be acquired. We can also see that 4 [J] floating credit units must also be acquired.

Credit units acquired in excess of the [A] credit units acquired for subjects common to all schools and [H] minimum credit units required for graduation for subjects unique to each school (26 units) are [J] floating credit units. 36 credit units are required to graduate. If 36 credit units are exceeded, the number is added to credit units earned, inclusive for "free subjects" for credit units for non-required courses.

* The float is calculated from the number of excessive credit units, and therefore the number of total credit units earned will remain at 0.
* The use of floating credit units differs depending on the school.

The number of credit units exceeding the minimum credit units required for graduation in each category is added to [J] floating credit units earned, inclusive.

The "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" for "Credit units for non-required courses" is not included in "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" for "Credit units required for graduation".
The "(3) Credit units earned, inclusive" for "Credit units for non-required courses" is the total obtained by adding "(1) Credit units to be earned for this semester" to "(2) Total credit units earned".

Viewing the Credit Unit Summary Table (Q&A)

Q1. How do I check whether I have enough credit units for graduation?

A1. It is possible to check whether the value for “(3) Credit units earned, inclusive” and “(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation” for each category is the same.

Example

Category	(1) Credit units to be earned for this semester	(2) Total credit units earned	(3) Credit units earned, inclusive	(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation
Credit units required for graduation	24	106	130	140
[C] School foundation (compulsory)	0	4	4	4

Compare the values for (3) and (4).

In this category, the student is short of 10 credit units for graduation.

In this category, the student has sufficient credit units for graduation.

* “(3) Credit units earned, inclusive” is the provisionally calculated value when a pass is achieved for all “(1) Credit units to be earned for this semester”, and therefore if there are any failed subjects, “(3) Credit units earned, inclusive” will decrease by that amount.

Q2. What should I do to acquire enough [J] floating credit units?

A2. Courses taken and credit units acquired in excess of the “(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation” in each category are added to floating credit units.

Example

Category	(1) Credit units to be earned for this semester	(2) Total credit units earned	(3) Credit units earned, inclusive	(4) Minimum credit units required for graduation
[H] Elective subjects	0	34	26	26
[J] Floating credit units--	0	0	8	36

There are 8 credit units more than the credit units earned, inclusive, and these are therefore added to floating credit units.

(4) Credit units exceeding the minimum credit units required for graduation are added.

Graduation

The School Faculty Council for each school makes a judgment on whether students have graduated if the following graduation requirements are satisfied at the end of the fall semester. Results are announced under "Notices" on CHUKYO ALBO around the beginning of March.

<Graduation Requirements>

- Being in university for a total of 4 years (8 semesters) or more (leaves of absence are not included)
- Being in university for 2 semesters or more in the 4th year
- Satisfying graduation requirements stipulated by each school, department (credit units required for graduation, other requirements, etc.)

Spring Semester Graduation

If the following graduation requirements are satisfied at the end of the spring semester, students will graduate at the end of the spring semester (September graduation) following a judgment on graduation by the School Faculty Council for each school. Results are announced under "Notice" on CHUKYO ALBO around the middle of September.

Division of Global Liberal Studies

III. Curriculums

Purpose of Education and Research

[School of Global Studies]

Evolving globalization has facilitated the free flow of people, goods, and information in the international society. The old concept of "national borders" has changed, and we now find ourselves in a world where we can say that regions which formerly consisted of multiple independent sovereign states have now become a single federation. This has resulted in the birth of a society based on diversity in which people with different histories and cultural traditions live together in a single society. On the other hand, exclusive nationalism has been rising in countries all over the world, and this has led to a phenomenon commonly referred to as a clash of civilizations. In the midst of this current global turmoil, there are many complex and diverse issues and problems which must be addressed for which it is difficult to find a solution based on a single academic discipline. As we strive to gain an understanding of global diversity, those who are only able to speak their mother tongue are faced with a variety of challenges. To confront the complex issues and problems facing the global society, the School of Global Studies researches and studies the behavior of "people" and movements of "society" from various academic disciplines, strives to cultivate multi-language capabilities, investigates the various issues facing the international society from all perspectives, and nurtures human resources equipped with the knowledge and skills to find solutions to these issues.

[Department of Global Studies]

The international society has witnessed an explosion in ethnic conflict and frequent terrorist incidents since the end of the cold war. The source of these issues is diverse, each with political, economic, or historical roots, and those charged with dealing with these issues range from international organizations such as the United Nations, to nations and NGOs. In addition to evolving globalization, Japan has also been greatly affected by the likes of advanced computerization and changes in industrial structures through its close relationship with the international society, thus requiring a strong understanding of international economic trends and business. The Department of Global Studies offers divisions of International Human Studies, International Politics, International Economics, and Global Liberal Studies, and aims not only to cultivate multi-language capabilities focusing on English, but to equip students with the knowledge and skills they will need to confront the many issues and problems facing the international society, and cultivate global leaders by teaching multi-faceted academic disciplines such as humanities or social sciences from the viewpoint of each division. In addition to evolving globalization, Japan has also been greatly affected by the likes of advanced computerization and changes in industrial structures through its close relationship with the international society, thus requiring a strong understanding of political and economic trends in the international society, as well as the business conducted there. Based on an accurate understanding of the current situation in the international society, the Department of Global Studies aims to cultivate human resources with the ability to communicate smoothly with many types of people, and who are equipped with advanced, specialized knowledge and skills for dealing with complex global issues.

Degree Award Policies

The School of Global Studies Department of Global Studies and the Department of Linguistics and Cultural Studies award bachelor degrees (Global Studies) to students who have studied predetermined subjects for the purpose of education and research, written and submitted a graduation thesis on a research theme in the relevant field, and taken and passed an examination.

The learning outcomes which form the standards for achievement are shown below. These are comprised of standards common to the School of Global Studies, standards for each department, and standards for each division.

Curriculum Creation and Implementation Policy

The School of Global Studies creates curriculums and offers effective teaching methods based on education and research objectives and degree award policies. The school strives to cultivate the multi-language capabilities necessary to confront the complex issues and problems facing the global society, and studies the behavior of “people” and movements of “society” from a variety of academic disciplines. The school creates curriculums as follows in order to realize these objectives.

<Composition of Department of Global Studies' specialized curriculum>

1. The Department of Global Studies has put together the following divisions and specialized courses, and offers division basic subjects, specialized course basic subjects, specialized course subjects, elective subjects, and seminars to realize phased, structured learning.
 - Division of International Human Studies (specialized courses in Philosophical Anthropology, Global History)
 - Division of International Politics (specialized courses in International Politics, International Development Studies)
 - Division of International Economics (specialized courses in International Economics, International Business Studies)
 - Division of Global Liberal Studies (specialized course in Global Liberal Studies)
2. Students whose mother tongue is not Japanese (Division of Global Liberal Studies students) are encouraged to adopt a phased approach to their studies by taking Japanese subjects from their 1st to 3th years in order to acquire a high-level mastery of Japanese (JF Standard for Japanese-Language Education B2/Japanese-Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) N2 equivalent). Moreover, all division of Global Liberal Studies professional education classes are conducted in English.
3. Seminars (graduation study) are compulsory subjects. Students are required to complete a graduation thesis (graduation study), which is a summation of the collective learning gained in the specialist field of their first major.

<Teaching methods (School of Global Studies common items)>

The following teaching methods are used to maximize teaching effectiveness in the School of Global Studies.

1. Teaching at the School of Global Studies involves interweaving interactive language classes and seminars, highly specialized lectures given by teachers in their specialist fields, and student-focused active learning.
2. With “world languages (English, second foreign language, Japanese)” and lecture subjects with 4 credit units per semester (specialized course subjects, specialized course elective subjects), the same subject is taught several times a week with appropriate intervals between each lesson, and subsequent content is taught while learning from previous lessons is still fresh in students' minds in order to increase class density.
3. Seminars held over two consecutive periods are held in the 3rd year, allowing ample time for presentations and discussion.
4. Review tests are conducted at appropriate intervals in order to check learning progress in each subject, and to ensure that students are kept on their toes at all times when taking lessons.

Curriculum

The curriculum is a plan of educational content created based on students' learning stage and abilities for the purpose of attaining educational goals. The university's curriculums are made up of subjects common to all schools and subjects unique to each school. To ensure graduation, it is necessary to acquire the credit units required by each department from groups of subjects.

Moreover, floating credit units for subjects which students are free to choose based on their individual interests and level of motivation from subjects common to all schools and subjects unique to each school, and subjects open to all students (system allowing students to register for courses offered by other school) designed to provide them with inter-disciplinary knowledge are also available.

Subjects common to all schools

These are also known as liberal arts education subjects. These subjects are taken by all students regardless of their school or area of research.

These subjects are studied over the course for 4 years in conjunction with subjects unique to each school or department, and are designed to equip students with extensive knowledge and education.

Subjects unique to each school

These are professional education subjects held for each school and department. The course make-up differs for each school and department, however, generally speaking, 1st and 2nd year students study basic subjects, and 3rd and 4th year students study highly specialized subjects. "Seminars" with a style of class characteristic of the university are also given.

Subjects open to all students [system allowing students to register for courses offered by other schools]

The university has a total of ten different schools, with a unique education system giving students the opportunity to study subjects unique to each school. Learning subjects unique to each school of other schools not only gives students the opportunity to gain deep and extensive knowledge, but also provides an inter-disciplinary viewpoint and way of thinking from a perspective other than that of their own specialist field.

Semester System & Spring and Fall System

In the semester system, a single academic year is divided up into spring and fall semesters, with credit units awarded each semester. With the spring and fall system, credit units are awarded for the entire year (period covering the spring and fall semesters.) The university generally operates a semester system, although there are subjects which fall under the spring and fall system.

Academic year	1		2		3		4
Term	Spring	Fall	Spring	Fall	Spring	Fall	Spring	Fall
Semester	1st	2nd	3rd	4th	5th	6th	7th	8th

Class Subject Categories

Subjects common to all schools and subjects unique to each school are categorized as follows.

1. Compulsory subjects These are subjects which are required to graduate.
2. Compulsory elective subjects These are subjects selected from multiple subjects specified from elective subjects, and must be taken.
3. Elective subjects These are subjects selected appropriately from subjects stipulated by each school, and must be taken to graduate.
4. Free subjects Credit units are awarded, however, these subjects are not included in the credit units required for graduation.

Credit Unit System

Chukyo University employs a credit unit system based on the "Standards for Establishment of Universities". The credit unit system is a system whereby students acquire credit units stipulated for each class subject by taking those subjects and passing the necessary examinations. Standards for Establishment of Universities state that 45 hours of learning are required for class subjects to acquire a single credit unit. To acquire credit units, self study such as preparing for and reviewing lessons is therefore necessary in addition to taking classes at the university.

Number of Credit Units

The following is stipulated in the Chukyo University regulations.

Subject category	Number of lesson hours	Number of credit units
Lecture subjects, exercise subjects	15 to 30 hours	1 credit unit
Basic foreign language subjects, experiments/practical training/practical skill subjects	30 to 45 hours	1 credit unit

Teaching Methods

Classes involve either lectures, exercises, experiments, practical training or practical skills, or a combination of these elements.

<Lectures>

This is a teaching format in which teachers explain academic approaches and how to achieve desired outcomes, as well as the content and nature of the subject being studied.

<Exercises>

This is a teaching format in which together with lectures by teachers, students receive instruction while engaging in debates and giving research presentations.

<Experiments>

This is a teaching method in which students attempt to verify the validity of knowledge gained in class, and whether information is considered to be logically or hypothetically correct.

<Practical training>

This is a teaching method in which students learn in practice based on knowledge gained in lectures, etc.

<Practical skills>

This is a teaching method which involves putting into actual practice the knowledge gained in lectures, etc.

Division and Specialized Course Abbreviation System

The School of Global Studies is divided up into 2 departments, 6 divisions, and 11 specialized courses.

1st year students are assigned to departments based on “division”, and students from 2nd year onward are assigned to departments based on “specialized courses”.

Earthquake Response

Chukyo University response

Students will be notified of the response to be taken following earthquakes on the university website and on CHUKYO ALBO. In the event of an earthquake, remain calm, and check the university website.

* The university uses CHUKYO ALBO to confirm the safety of its students.

<An understanding of earthquakes begins with personal safety!>

With Nankai megathrust earthquakes, it is anticipated that severe tremors will continue for approximately 1 to 2 minutes. Wait until the tremors subside, and then calmly go about your business while keeping in mind that tremors of a similar scale may occur.

Response while commuting, while in the university

A. During lectures

- (1) Lie face down beneath your desk, or protect your body with your bag, etc. to protect yourself from falling objects from above.
- (2) Those standing near doors should open the doors to secure escape exits.
- (3) Follow the instructions given by the teaching staff once the earthquake settles down.

B. When riding the elevator

- (1) Elevators automatically stop at the nearest floor in the event of an earthquake, and therefore the button for each floor should be pressed (elevators are equipped with a function to stop at the nearest floor). Please evacuate using the stairs when the elevator stops at the nearest floor.
- (2) If you become trapped in an elevator, call for help using the telephone or intercom.

C. When commuting

- (1) Roofing tiles or glass shards may fall, or concrete-block walls may topple when walking along narrow roads or passing close to walls, and therefore such areas should be avoided. Use your bag, etc. to protect yourself from falling objects from above.
- (2) When riding the bus or train, remain calm, and follow the instructions of the bus driver or train crew.
- (3) If driving a vehicle, do not hit the brakes suddenly, and park your vehicle on the left side of the road. Listen to the relevant information on the radio, and act in accordance with regulations.

* When evacuating, leave your key in the ignition, and do not lock the doors.

- (4) If near the coast or mouth of a river, evacuate to a high place which offers safety in the event of a tsunami.

D. In case of fire

- (1) Notify those around you. Trigger a fire alarm or ring an emergency bell if there is one nearby.
- (2) Even in the event that fire has not spread to the ceiling. Remain calm, and try to extinguish the fire in its initial stages by using whatever means is readily available.
* However, if you sense danger, do not try too hard to extinguish the fire, but evacuate the building.
- (3) When evacuating a smoke-filled building, maintain as low a posture as possible, cover your mouth with a wet handkerchief, and try not to inhale smoke.

Using fire extinguishers

A fire extinguisher can be found in all buildings, on all floors, and in all classrooms.

After confirming a fire, call out to others in a loud voice, and try to help extinguish the fire in its initial stages by using whatever means is readily available.

- (1) Remove safety pin
- (2) Remove hose and direct at fire
- (3) Grip lever and spray

Evacuation method

If there are no fires, etc. following the occurrence of an earthquake, please remain where you are until safety has been ensured. If necessary to evacuate, please check the standard methods specified for each campus beforehand. Furthermore, a simple evacuation guide is posted in each classroom, allowing students to verify the evacuation method in the event of an earthquake at any time.

Response for those at home or in lodgings

Prepare an emergency bag (water, food and drink, minimum necessities, etc.) for use at any time!!

Immediately after earthquake

Protect yourself

Keep a safe distance from any furniture, etc. that is likely to fall over, and keep under cover of a desk, etc. Avoid rushing outside in a panic.

1 to 2 minutes after earthquake

Preventing fire breakout, securing an escape route

Close any gas taps, and unplug cables from their sockets.

If fire breaks out, remain calm, and try to extinguish the fire in its initial stages by using whatever means is readily available. Open any doors and windows to secure an escape route.

Up to 3 days after earthquake

Verifying the safety of your family, being on guard in case of earthquakes of a similar scale

Do not go near houses that have fallen down. Call out for neighbors, and evacuate on foot if possible.

Extinguishing fires, rescuing those in trouble, providing assistance in the neighborhood

Cooperate with others in the neighborhood, rescue those who are injured, and provide assistance wherever necessary.

Look after yourself first

Use drinking water and food, etc. that you have kept for emergencies. Be vigilant against false rumors, and try to obtain accurate information.

4 or more days after earthquake

Maintaining and returning to normal life

Be on guard for disasters (earthquakes of similar scale) occurring 4 or more days after the initial earthquake, and try to gather living information.

Try to return to normal life.

Other information

<Necessity of preparing for earthquakes>

We are told that a Nankai megathrust earthquake might occur at some time in the near future. Such an earthquake is likely to cause serious damage such as buildings collapsing, furniture toppling, and damage. With past earthquakes, it was not possible to respond to unforeseen developments, and casualties were enormous. To prevent such tragedy, it is necessary to obtain a basic knowledge of earthquakes and verify evacuation routes, and be prepared for earthquakes occurring in everyday life to ensure a swift response whenever one occurs.

<Be vigilant against false rumors!!>

The various information available at times of emergency can be complicated, making it difficult to obtain the necessary accurate information. Information can be gathered relatively easily at times of disaster on SNS such as Facebook, LINE, or Twitter, however, there is also a risk of malicious false rumors or incorrect information being spread. Please compare obtained information with that provided by the government or local governments to verify the reliability and importance of the information.
